QUESTION

How can I avoid writing three different if else ladders and combine all of those together? Will combining those make the program fast/efficient?